Your guide

You will have an English-speaking Bhutanese guide to lead your trip. Mountain Kingdoms have been working with the same partner in Bhutan since 1986 and their guides are some of the best in the Kingdom. They speak good English, as this is taught in all Bhutanese schools, and are fully qualified guides. The Tourism Authority of Bhutan insists that a Bhutanese trek or tour leader must pass his/her guiding exams in Thimphu before accompanying groups of foreign visitors.

Trip summary

Our avowed aim with this holiday is to show you rural Bhutan in depth, as well as take you on inventive day walks to some of the major sights. In the ten days you will be in Bhutan we will show you the little known, but wonderfully beautiful, Pho Chu river valley at Punakha, and the Haa valley west of Paro. Few people visit these two valleys but there are charming villages, hamlets, terraced farmland, forests, and cliff temples to discover. You will also stroll on lovely day walks we have researched over the years, to enjoy views of the Himalaya, have picnics and get off-grid. And, as a final flourish, there is an exciting overnight trek crossing the high Saga La Pass.

Departures are tied into annual festivals. The atmosphere of these ancient ceremonies is extraordinary. Tibetan horns blow, cymbals clash, drums beat and colourful, masked dancers twirl purifying the ground on which they stamp their feet. Outrageous clowns tease dancers and spectators alike. You just know the gods look on in approval!

But it is the people of Bhutan we want you to get to know, and best way to do this is to stay in their houses. Around 2015 some bright spark in the Ministry of Tourism came up with the idea of 'Homestays'. It has slowly but surely developed in standards of comfort and cleanliness, aided by the fact that before a family can accept paying foreigners their house must be approved by government. All homestays are regularly inspected and certified. We have always recommended homestays and incorporated them into a small selection of our group holidays and, without fail, our travellers always enjoy the experience. Meeting the families and their animals is quite an eye-opener. Sometimes yaks and/or cattle live on the ground floor and the family lives above. Bhutanese customs are quirky and their beliefs date back to a time that pre-dates Buddhism - animistic beliefs of spirits, both good and bad. Every house has a shrine room which you will be proudly shown. You will quickly learn the names of the most important deities, and the aura that surrounds them. The family who host you will no doubt entertain you with some of the folklore, legends and myths that are so integral to the Bhutanese way of life.

Let's not forget the scenery! Every valley is different, each one becomes your favourite in turn. You will obtain distant views of the very highest peaks, including the highest unclimbed peak in the world Mt. Gangkar Punsum, 7,550m/24,770ft.

The culmination of this walking holiday will be the crossing on foot of the Saga La Pass, 3,597m/11,801 ft. and the descent to the ancient fortress of Drugyel Dzong. You spend the night on trek 'glamping' in a deluxe campsite with first-rate facilities. Finally, you will make the walk up to Taktsang Monastery, or Tiger's Nest as it is known, marking the climax of your stay in the Thunder Dragon Kingdom.

My Bhutan - by our MD, Steve Berry

The hidden kingdom of Bhutan stirs the imagination of all who yearn to travel and explore. Tucked away among the primeval folds of the Eastern Himalaya it takes up little space on the map, and possibly most of our planet's population knows nothing of its existence. Therein lies its appeal! Here is a land to be discovered, mysteries to be unravelled, and a culture from which to learn. It is little wonder that people should want to go there; who would believe that a land whose gods dwell on mountain tops, and where reincarnate lamas meditate in musty monasteries amidst mist-shrouded mountains, does actually exist in reality, and not just in the pages of some fairy story?

Indeed, for very many centuries the kingdom was closed to the outside world and ruled by a re-incarnate personage known as the Shabdrung (at whose feet one submits). The first Shabdrung arrived in 1616 from Tibet having experienced a vision in which he was urged (some say by two ravens) to leave his monastery of Ralung Gumpa and travel to Bhutan to find his destiny. He eventually unified the whole country, built most of the main monastery/fortresses you still see to this day, created a codicil of laws, and established a form of government. When he died his death was kept a secret for over forty years. Reincarnations of his mind, speech and body vied for power over the next 400 years causing much strife, until in 1907 the old tradition of re-incarnate rulers was swept aside and an hereditary monarchy was established.

However, the Kingdom of the Thunder Dragon remained closed until tourism started in a very small way in 1974 when the 4th king came to the Raven throne. The first hotel was built in Paro, and a small dirt airstrip was constructed. In those days small twin engine aircraft flew across the plains of India, weaved their way through the foothills and steep valleys, and landed in a cloud of dust in front of the monastery/fortress of Paro Dzong. People were often seen to alight from the plane and make full body prostrations muttering prayers of thanks for their safe arrival. A small tin shed served as the Customs Clearance office, and brightly coloured dragonflies flew around the room. Today there is a tarmac runway, but even now you see people alight and kiss the ground.

Yes, since then Bhutan has slowly modernised, and today electric cars can be seen in the streets of Thimphu! Nevertheless, its people steadfastly follow the old traditions and are followers of a Red Hat sect of Tibetan Buddhism known as Drukpa Kagyu. Their kings continue to wisely guide and advise the relatively new people's government headed now by an elected Prime Minister. Their code of ethics ensures 'Gross National Happiness is more important than Gross National product', and their proud claim is that they are the only country in the world which is carbon negative.

I have been travelling, trekking and even climbing in Bhutan since 1986. In fact I attempted to climb Gangkar Punsum in 1986 after a Bhutanese colonel in exile secured me a permit, but that's another story! I have very many friends there now, and I have spent countless hours in their fascinating company. I just love listening to their stories, and the more I hear the more I am impressed by their beliefs, philosophy, and outlook on life. I feel honoured whenever I stay in one of their houses, and have enjoyed some amazing evenings in homestays. In fact, Lotay Gyeltshen is one of my oldest friends and you will have the pleasure of staying at his house for two nights.

My advice? Go to Bhutan and be ready to be amazed by the views, the history, the religion and its wonderful people. I hope you find it as fulfilling as I have.

Special notes

Bhutanese Homestays

Homestays in Bhutan give you a chance to experience first-hand the country's rich culture, warm hospitality, and way of life. Traditional Bhutanese houses are elaborately painted, and often the images you see are chosen to ward off evil spirits or to keep the family and its animals healthy. Every house has a shrine room where there will be statues, wall paintings, masks of gods and demons, and guardian deities. Living rooms are cosy, and it is not uncommon to share mealtimes with your hosts. Bedrooms are comfortable, bathrooms are usually shared, but are modern. Some homestays offer hot stone baths as well.

Your hosts may offer a range of different experiences. These could include: cooking lessons, milking a cow, dancing (especially after a few glasses of ara!), looking around the farmstead, learning about traditions, legends, and history. You may possibly eat with the family and will certainly enjoy the freshly cooked meals (vegetarian options are available). Go easy on the optional chilies! Try a game of darts (nothing like our darts!), or try your hand at archery. You might meet neighbours, monks, the family's herd of yaks, or watch ladies weaving the finest costumes to be found anywhere in the Himalaya.

Kathmandu - Paro flights

Please note that there is the small possibility that flight schedules between Kathmandu and Paro could change in the coming months. This may result in alterations to the itinerary and/or the dates of travel.

Your trip itinerary

Day 1: Depart London.

Depart London on your overnight flight to Kathmandu.

Overnight: In flight

Day 2: Arrive Kathmandu. Group transfer to hotel.

You will be met on arrival and transferred to your hotel. For your evening meal, you might like to venture into Thamel, the tourist heart of Kathmandu, where you will find many restaurants and bars.

Overnight: Kathmandu Guest House or Similar, Kathmandu

Day 3: Fly to Paro in Bhutan, 2,250m/7,382ft. Sightseeing.

This morning you transfer to the airport for the flight to Paro, Bhutan's main airstrip at 2,250m/7,382ft. The flight often gives fantastic views of the Himalaya including Everest, and particularly exciting is the section through the Bhutanese foothills and the thrilling landing. Although you are at the mercy of the airline computer, if possible try to sit on the left-hand side of the plane for the best views. You will be met on arrival by your Bhutanese guide and then transferred to your hotel where you may have lunch depending on the time you arrive.

In the afternoon you will enjoy some sightseeing in and around Paro including a walk to visit Paro Dzong. This spectacular dzong is situated on a rocky outcrop above the Paro Chu River with views down both sides of the valley. Historically it was one of Bhutan's strongest and most strategic fortresses and, before the rebuilding of the Tashidodzong in Thimphu, it was also the seat of Bhutan's National Assembly.

Above the dzong is the 17th century watchtower or Ta Dzong. This unusual, circular building houses Bhutan's National Museum and has recently been fully restored. The museum has a fantastic collection of Bhutanese national treasures with displays including depictions of a wide range of Bhutan's history and culture.

If time allows you could also take a short walk to see a cantilevered bridge, visit Dungtse Lhakhang (temple), or take a stroll through Paro's interesting streets.

Overnight: Hotel Olathang or Similar, Paro (Meals: BLD)

Day 4: Attend the Paro Tsechu.

Today, you have a full day to enjoy the celebrations at the the Paro Tsechu held in the courtyard of Paro Dzong. It is one of the largest, most important and most vibrant festivals in Bhutan attracting thousands of local people, and international visitors, over the course of five days.

All tsechus are colourful occasions full of music and ceremonial dances that are staged in honour of the 8th century saint, Guru Rinpoche, who is believed to have first introduced Buddhism to Bhutan. They commemorate his great deeds, all believed to have taken place on the tenth day of the month - the meaning of the word, Tsechu. Such festivals are primarily religious but they are also an opportunity for the people to come together in all their finery to socialise, celebrate and have fun. The Bhutanese believe that they will achieve merit by attending the festival and by watching the masked (cham) dances and the event draws people in from even the remotest villages of the surrounding district.

Overnight: Hotel Olathang or Similar, Paro (Meals: BLD)

Day 5: Walk to Kyichu Lhakhang - 3-4 hours. Drive to Thimphu, 2,321m/7,615 ft - 1½-2 hours. Visit the giant Buddha statue.

This morning's walk begins from your hotel, taking you up and over a hill to Kyichu Lhakhang. On the way you will visit two ancient temples that signify long life. You reach the first - the 13th century Zhang Zha Gumpa - after about 1½ hours, then Tshering Lhakhang after another half hour of walking. From here it's another hour walking downhill to reach Kyichu Lhakhang. This is one of the most important temples in Bhutan dating back to the 8th century.

In the afternoon you will drive to Thimphu, stopping en route to visit Tamchhog Lhakang. This temple was built in the 14th century by the son of the very famous 'Iron Bridge' builder, Thangthong Gyalpo. You cross one of the eight bridges he built in Bhutan to reach the temple. It is an easy 15 minute walk from the road and has the immediate effect of transporting you back into the atmosphere of ancient Bhutan. Driving on to Thimphu you will see that it has an attractive valley location and is relatively small for a capital city, although it has grown greatly in recent years. You will drive up to see the giant Buddha Dordenma statue and enjoy the far-reaching views its vantage place offers. You then continue to your hotel where you will spend the next two nights.

Overnight: Phuntso Pelri Hotel or Similar, Thimphu (Meals: BLD)

Day 6: Sightseeing in Thimphu. Afternoon walk to Wangditse Lhakhang - 1½-2 hours. Visit to Thimphu Dzong.

Your morning will be spent enjoying some of the sights of Thimphu. There are many places of interest to visit including the the Textile Museum, the late King's Memorial Chorten, the National Library, the School of Painting and the silversmiths and pottery workshops. The Government Handicrafts Emporium is possibly the best place to look for local handicraft. It is interesting to visit the handmade paper workshop to see the traditional processes involved in paper making. You could also visit the Post Office to buy some of Bhutan's very attractive stamps, they will even print a valid stamp with your face on it while you wait!

After lunch you will walk up to Sangaygang next to the Bhutan First Broadcasting Service tower, located about a mile away in the north-west of Thimphu. There are great views over Thimphu Dzong and the Thimphu valley as you start your walk contouring the beautiful hills to visit Wangditse Lhakhang. You will have time to visit the gumpa before you walk down for another 30 minutes to reach Dechen Phodrang Monastery. This monastery houses around 450 student monks and is also home to some fantastic UNESCO monitored 12th century paintings. You will then meet your vehicle and be driven back to Thimphu.

Your day ends with a visit to impressive Tashichhodzong which is the official seat of government in Bhutan.

Overnight: Phuntso Pelri Hotel or Similar, Thimphu (Meals: BLD)

Day 7: Visit Simtokha Dzong. Drive over the Dochu La Pass 3,100 m/10,170 ft. to Punakha - 2-3 hours. Walk to Samdingkha.

Before you start the drive over the Dochu La pass you will visit the very first dzong (monastery/fortress) ever to be built in Bhutan. Simtokha Dzong was built in 1628 by the most powerful ruler in Bhutan's history, the Shabdrung, Nawang Namgyal. It occupies a strategic position, and was built as protection against a demon which had disappeared into a rock close by.

You drive on to the Dochu La pass, 3,100 m/10,170 ft, and upon reaching the pass, walk up to the temple at the top of the hill for the best views of the Himalaya, including Bhutan's highest mountain Gangkar Punsum. The 108 chortens on the pass were built by the 4th king's four wives to commemorate his victory over the Bodo militants in 2003. If time allows it is interesting to do a short walk which connects 11 meditation caves close to the pass.

Continuing from the pass, the road snakes through forest, down some 30km to Punakha Dzong. Every year in the winter the main body of monks walk from Thimphu to Punakha and spend the winter in this dzong. Having looked around Punakha you will walk upstream on the left hand bank of the Pho Chu river which originates in Bhutan's remotest region, Lunana. This side valley is little visited, quiet, and very beautiful. The path undulates through forest affording lovely views of hamlets, villages, lone houses, and the odd temple. Sometimes you are high above the wide river which is sometimes braided into minor rapids. Large mountains loom in a background haze. You come across the remains of a large ruined house, made in the traditional way with walls of compacted mud. The path traverses around some ancient canyons whose walls and cliffs look like they are made of fossilised mud. As you arrive at the steel girder bridge leading to Samdingkha there are cultivated fields with strong fences to keep wild animals out of the crops. In the small village of Samdingkha you will be met by your vehicle to drive back down to Punakha, with, if there is time, a visit to the small temple of Meaneag Lhakhang.

You will continue to your farmhouse homestay where you will be staying for the next two nights. This homestay is owned by Lotay Gyeltshen. In the past Lotay accompanied our M.D, Steve Barry, on dozens of treks as his head cook. Lotay and his wife, Kuenga, now own a delightful traditional house and smallholding in a beautiful position on the banks of the Pho Chu river. While you are staying here Lotay will be delighted to show you around his farmstead, explaining various traditional farming methods and crops, and the income a small farm such as his can provide. You will also have the opportunity to try various activities, which may include cooking lessons, some bird watching on the banks of the river, and maybe a game of darts.

Overnight: Lotay's Farmhouse Homestay, Punakha (Meals: BLD)

Day 8: Short drive to Kunega Zhedheyling Homestay. Three Temples walk - 3-4 hours.

After breakfast, you make the short drive to the Kuenga Zhedheyling Farmhouse Homestay in the Jibjokha Valley, where you will also be spending the night. Having picked up a picnic lunch, you set off from the farmhouse passing through rice terraces and soon encountering your first temple (or lakhang) at the tiny settlement of Jibjokha. There are some interesting statues to see here.

As you progress, your guide will point out Pangtse Shing (Symplocus) trees near the trail. This tree has many medicinal benefits and is also used for dyes, and the oil from its seeds is much prized in Bhutanese cuisine. In spring you will see the trees in flower and then the fruits appear in the autumn when the oil is extracted.

Your hike continues through fields into the Wangkha Valley where you will find your second temple built 40 years ago by the locals. After leaving the lakhang you will come across the house of Aum Karma Dem and may be able to rest awhile in her front garden and enjoy a cup of tea. Continuing on through more terraces the trail then enters some woods providing welcome shade if the weather is warm. At the end of the woods you reach a feeder 'road' leading into the Dawakha Valley. This valley is much more populated than the others. The main village here is Dawakha, which sits on high ground affording good views of the surrounding hills and valleys. This is the home of the third temple of the walk. There is also a shop in the village so you may be able to grab a cold drink before setting off downhill on a wooded track to get back to your starting point and overnight accommodation.

Overnight: Kuenga Zhedheyling Homestay, Punakha (Meals: BLD)

Day 9: Drive to Haa via the Chele La Pass, 3,990m/13,090ft. Walk to Kila Nunnery from the pass.

Today you will drive back over the Dochu La Pass, bypass Thimphu, and carry on towards Paro before turning up the mountain road which takes you eventually to the less visited valley of Haa.

It is about 1½ hour's drive from the Paro turn-off to reach the Chele La. On a clear day there are views of Kangchenjunga and other snowy giants in neighbouring Sikkim. From the pass you walk down to visit Kila nunnery, 3,683m/12,085ft. Just like the Tiger's Nest in Paro, and indeed hundreds of Bhutan's temples, Kila is a cliff temple. The walk takes about 1½ hours through forest, mixed rhododendron and carpets of flowers. You can visit the temples at Kila where nuns will anoint your head with scented water; it is customary to take a sip of the holy water. After your visit you descend the short distance to a rough road which takes you back and up to the Chele La and your vehicle. Now comes the exciting descent down zigzags to Haa. Soon you will see the three conical mountains that are regarded as protective deities. Collectively they are known as Meri Punsum.

Having checked into your homestay you will be taken on a walk to Yangtong village. Here there was a fire in February 2002 which destroyed 11 houses although miraculously the village temple was untouched. After the tragedy the king donated money for the rebuilding. The workmanship is such that you would hardly guess half the village has been rebuilt. Returning to the homestay visit you may visit Haa Dzong on route and also take a walk down through the town.

Overnight: Damchoe Pem Farmhouse or Pema Dema Homestay, Haa Valley (Meals: BLD)

Day 10: Trek from Talung to Choeduphu across the Saga La Pass, 3,597m/11,801ft - 17 km, 6-7 hours.

It's a 20 minute drive to the start of your two-day trek just above Talung village, 2,996m/9,830ft. The first hour and a half is easily up through primula covered meadows. Often there are herds of yak here. You then cross two bridges until you come to a junction of paths - the left-hand route leads into Tibet, the right-hand fork should be signed 'Saga La'. It is all too easy to take the left-hand path as it is the more obvious.

The path to the Saga La only takes 1½ hours but is more steeply uphill. There's a sheltered canopy on the pass which is a good place to stop for lunch.

On a clear day you have excellent views of Bhutan's second highest mountain, Mt Chomolhari 7,326m/24,035ft, and its satellite peaks. These include the incredibly beautiful Mt Jitchu Drake at 6,662m/21,857ft high. From the pass take the left-hand path and descend to Dongney Tsho/Chodeypho. Tread with care as the path can be slippery in places if wet. There are also two streams to cross.

Your overnight 'camp' is in a tiny hamlet where an old farmhouse has been tastefully converted, and where a number of luxury tents, with en suite bathrooms, await.

Overnight: Choeduphu Deluxe Camp (Meals: BLD)

Day 11: Trek to Drugyel Dzong - 1.5km, 1½-2 hours. Transfer to homestay in the Paro Valley.

The trail to Drugyel Dzong begins by leading for 20 minutes to an old ruin. You will spot a lone Cypress tree from where the faint trail continues downhill to Paro valley below. The track is sometimes overgrown, and your guide will carry a machete for path clearing purposes.

Drugyel Dzong was built in the early 1600s to protect the new Kingdom of Bhutan from Tibetan invasions. It was destroyed by fire in 1951, and has only recently been fully restored. You'll have time to look around the dzong before your driver takes you to Lamgong village where you will stay the night at a heritage homestay.

Overnight: Rinjung Heritage Homestay or Amas Farmhouse Lamgong Village, Paro (Meals: BLD)

Day 12: Walk up to Tiger's Nest Monastery then return to homestay. Evening cultural show.

A short drive beyond Paro takes you to the trail head for the walk up to the famous Tiger's Nest, Taktsang Monastery. The monastery is perched some 600m/2,000ft up on a cliff overlooking the valley and was said to be where the legendary Indian saint, Guru Padma Sambhava, flew from Tibet on the back of a tiger to defeat five demons, who were opposing the spread of Buddhism in Bhutan.

It's a steep uphill walk through woods of about 1½-2hrs, to reach a tea house (an ascent of 340m/1,115ft). Apart from offering welcome refreshment this is one of the principle viewpoints of Taktsang. A further half an hour's ascent brings you to another viewpoint directly across from Taktsang. The final section of the walk takes you from here steeply down 100m/330ft into the gorge that separates you from the monastery and then climbs back up again to reach the monastery gate. If there are no VIPs visiting, or other official events, you should be able to enter.

Once you have finished your visit, and walked back down, your driver will meet you and take you back to your homestay. Later in the evening your hosts will present a cultural show with music and dancing to mark your last night in Bhutan.

Overnight: Rinpung Heritage Homestay or Amas Farmhouse Lamgong Village, Paro (Meals: BLD)

Day 13: Fly to Kathmandu. Transfer to hotel.

After breakfast, you will transfer to Paro Airport where you will say a fond farewell to your guide and driver. You then check in for your flight, normally in the early morning, which takes you out and over the Bhutanese mountains and past Kangchenjunga, Makalu and Everest (the latter is quite distant on this flight), finally dropping down into the Kathmandu Valley. You will be met on arrival and transferred to your hotel in central Kathmandu with the rest of the day free.

Overnight: Kathmandu Guest House or Similar, Kathmandu (Meals: B)

Day 14: Time at leisure. Late afternoon transfer to airport for overnight flight to London.

There is still time today for some last-minute shopping or sightseeing in Kathmandu, or simply to relax at your hotel. The day is yours until the afternoon group transfer to the airport for your flight back to London.

Overnight: In flight (Meals: B)

Day 15: Arrive London.

Our grading system

Temple Trails & Homestays, Bhutan is graded as a Gentle/Moderate walking holiday, as described below.

Gentle

Trips within this grade typically mix sightseeing with easy-paced half and/or full day walks. On these trips, walks will be on relatively low altitude trails, for a duration of around 4-6 hours. On all of our Gentle graded trips, some ascent and descent should be anticipated, and there may occasionally be a longer walking day. Holidays within this grade generally use hotels and comfortable lodges although a few do have some nights camping.

Moderate

Holidays in this grade typically involve 5 to 10 days of walking or trekking. They will often venture into more remote country and can cross mountain passes. Altitudes though are still relatively low, going no higher than around 4,300m/14,000ft. Accommodation can include simple hotels, tea houses, lodges and camping. These holidays are suitable for people who enjoy easy-paced walks in the British countryside or exploring on foot rather than in a vehicle.

Trip altitude

Important - please be aware that this trip involves travel at altitude. Whilst all our itineraries are carefully designed to optimise acclimatisation to high altitudes, participants on this trip are likely to experience some symptoms of being at altitude. Your accommodation

We will endeavour to secure the hotels named in the itinerary but if our first choice of hotel is not available we will book a suitable alternative of a similar standard.

Hotels in Bhutan

Please note that there is generally a shortage of hotel/lodge accommodation in Bhutan, especially outside Paro and Thimphu. Although we pre-book rooms as far in advance as possible, anything can happen and probably will, e.g. if the royal family suddenly has a visiting delegation, accommodation may be changed at short notice. Additionally, during peak seasons, it can sometimes be very difficult to secure not only the hotels/lodges we want, but also the single rooms we might need. In these circumstances singles may occasionally be asked to share but in such cases we refund any single room supplements that might apply. Given these conditions we will make every effort to secure any of the following hotels:

Kathmandu Guest House or Similar, Kathmandu

The Kathmandu Guest House is a 4* hotel situated right in the heart of Thamel - the tourist hub of the city. Known as Kathmandu's 'original hotel' it has been extensively renovated over recent years and has good quality rooms, a spa, gardens and a restaurant. The hotel also houses the excellent Museum of Nepali Art (MONA) which showcases traditional and contemporary works of art - admission is free for Mountain Kingdoms guests.

Hotel Olathang or Similar, Paro

Originally built for the coronation of the Bhutan's 4th King in 1974, this attractive hotel stands on a hill overlooking Paro town. Rooms in the main building are set around a peaceful courtyard and there are also a number of cottages dotted around the spacious grounds. Decoration is typically Bhutanese with stripped wooden floors and colourfully painted walls. Rooms are well-equipped and the hotel has its own spa, international restaurant and bar.

Phuntso Pelri Hotel or Similar, Thimphu

Despite its somewhat dark entrance hall, this hotel is very well appointed, with custom made Bhutanese wooden furniture and good sized rooms. During busy periods, especially during festivals, we may use the Jomolhari Hotel, the Kisa Hotel, Hotel Gakyil, Hotel Osel or the Amodhara Hotel. These are amongst the best tourist class hotels in Thimphu.

Lotay's Farmhouse Homestay, Punakha

Lotay Gyeltshen was the most senior trekking cook for our partners in Bhutan. He is now retired from trekking, but he and his wife run a fantastic Homestay in the Punakha Valley. Their traditional house has a beautiful setting on the banks of the Puna Tsang Chu River - a great spot for birdwatching. Bedrooms have twin mattresses and there are shared, modern, bathroom facilities. All meals are provided at the homestay with much produce grown in their smallholding. During your stay there may be an opportunity for a hot stone bath, take a cookery lesson, and have a go at archery.

Kuenga Zhedheyling Homestay, Punakha

Situated above the village of Samdingkha is the valley of Jibjokha accessed on a rough jeep track. The village there bears the same name. This is a stunning homestay with five bedrooms. Its living room has full length windows on three sides giving fabulous views of the village, fields and mountains (shown here).

Damchoe Pem Farmhouse or Pema Dema Homestay, Haa Valley

Owned by the wife of a retired colonel of the Bhutan army this homestay is exceptionally nice but has only three twin rooms. However, the colonel himself owns the Jampelyang Hotel next door and, if needed, we will use both. Alternatively, we may use the Pema Dema Homestay in Talung village.

Chhoeduphu Deluxe Camp

Situated in a remote side valley on the way down from the Saga La Pass an old farmhouse has been tastefully converted and houses an atmospheric dining room, kitchen and bar. Sleeping accommodation is in large, walk-in deluxe tents with en suite bathrooms which sit on a terrace next to the old house.

Rinpung Heritage Homestay or Amas Farmhouse Lamgong Village, Paro

Rinpung is over 100 years old and is a large imposing house. Beautiful inside and out, it boasts a large dining room and 5 double bedrooms. There are no less than 4 shower rooms with modern WCs. It used to be owned by a man who traded with Tibet in the days before the Dalai Lama left Tibet.

Amas Farmhouse, very nearby is of a very similar size and is also a beautiful homestay property. Pictured here is one of the bedrooms at the homestay.

The nature of adventure travel

Every effort will be made to keep to this itinerary but we cannot guarantee that things may not change, either before you travel or while you are away. By its very nature, adventure travel involves an element of the unexpected, particularly in more remote areas. A variety of factors such as adverse weather conditions, changes to local schedules and difficulties with transportation can all contribute to the need to make changes to the itinerary, often at the very last minute. Our Operations Manager and your Trip Leader will make every effort to maintain the integrity of the original itinerary and minimise the impact of any changes, but an easy-going and flexible nature is a real asset! Please note that all timings and distances given are approximate.

What our clients say

Bhutan must be one of the most beautiful and unspoilt countries I have ever seen. Both the landscape and the people combine to make it a very special place indeed. We did some amazing treks with sublime views and visited some incredible temples and festivals. Our guide and driver were absolutely superb and the homestay experience was quite unique. The highlight of the trip was the hike up to Tiger's Nest Monastery which must be one of the modern wonders of the world.

-John Gregson

This was a very varied holiday with lots of different experiences. It was very enjoyable staying with local homestays as a contrast to hotels.

-Sue,

I have very many friends in Bhutan and I feel honoured whenever I stay in one of their houses, and have enjoyed some amazing evenings in homestays. This holiday gives others to enjoy the same experience whilst also exploring some of Bhutan's most beautiful and unspoiled valleys.

-Steve Berry, Mountain Kingdoms M.D.

Mountain Kingdoms - distinctly different

Truly independent

In an age where many so-called 'independent' travel companies have in fact been bought out by multi-national giants, we remain fiercely independent with all the benefits this offers our clients.

Value for money prices with an emphasis on quality

We are not in the business of cutting our itineraries and services to the bone to offer eye-catching cheap prices. We use some of the best airlines, and typically 3 or 4 star hotels in cities. We include the majority of meals and private transport for road travel. We use excellent equipment and appoint well-trained staff and leaders. Last year, over 98% of our clients rated their Mountain Kingdoms holiday as 'excellent' or 'good'. We are members of AITO and bound by their quality charter.

Complete financial security

You can book with us confident that your holiday has full financial protection. Flight inclusive holidays are financially protected by the Civil Aviation Authority under ATOL licence number 2973 and 'Land Only' holidays are covered by a bond secured with ABTOT.

No Surcharge Guarantee

Your peace of mind is important to us so we have a No Surcharge Guarantee on all Land Only and Flight Inclusive bookings. This means that there will be no change to the price of your holiday once we have confirmed your booking, regardless of fluctuations in exchange rates or fuel prices.

Award winning Responsible Tourism

We feel strongly that all our holidays should benefit local communities, protect the environment and respect local traditions, religion and heritage. You can read more about the charities we support and our Responsible Tourism commitments and initiatives on the following page or at www.mountainkingdoms.com.

Genuine small group travel

Almost all of our holidays have a maximum group size of just 12, plus leader. This provides more contact with your leader, readier access to off-the-beaten-path areas, greater interaction with local communities and a reduced environmental impact.

Loyalty Discount

If you have previously travelled with us we recognise your loyalty with a discount on future trips.

Booking your holiday - it couldn't be easier

Once you've chosen your Mountain Kingdoms holiday you can book online, call the office or complete and post a booking form which can be found in our brochure or downloaded from our website. If you would like to hold a place on one of our trips, whilst you make up your mind, please give us a call to make a provisional booking. This is a no-obligation, no-cost booking and we will hold your place until space comes under pressure or we need your decision.

Comprehensive information

When we receive your booking we send you a full trip dossier which contains details of visas and vaccinations required, a suggested gear and clothing list and lots of useful information. In fact, everything you need to know to give you peace of mind and allow you to prepare for your trip of a lifetime.

RESPONSIBLE TOURISM STATEMENT

For almost four decades, Mountain Kingdoms has been offering people the chance to visit amazing places on this extraordinary planet. We now have trips to all corners of the globe but are conscious that our holidays can have a detrimental impact on the world around us and want to do all we can to reduce that.

We have focused our main responsible tourism efforts on reducing the carbon emissions produced by our holidays, and counterbalancing this carbon by supporting carbon offset measures. Here are some of our current and future plans to minimise the impact of our business as a whole.

Carbon offsetting

Since 2007, we have donated a percentage of our client and staff flight costs to the Ecoan tree planting project in Peru. Ecoan are a trusted local NGO who use the funds directly to purchase seedling trees with the long-term goal of restoring 2.5 million acres of Andean land.

Ecoan maintains over 100 tree nurseries across Peru where their tree saplings are grown and then transported to planting sites during the rainy season. They use native trees such as the Polylepis, as these can survive at high altitudes. As well as sequestering carbon, they help protect against soil erosion, landslides and the effects of extreme weather on local crops. As such, they are enormously beneficial to the economic well-being of the surrounding communities. This is very much a community-led conservation project, with the local Quechuan people coming together to plant tens of thousands of saplings in the Andean highlands where they live. During the annual Queuña Raymi (tree festival), over 150,000 native trees can be planted in a single day!

For every person booking a long-haul, flight inclusive holiday with us, Ecoan can purchase and plant 20 trees in Peru, and for short-haul flights, 7 trees. Typically, we send over $7,000 per year to Ecoan, which is over 7,000 trees.

Reducing carbon emissions

- ✓ We offer the majority of our clients a free, filtered Water-to-Go bottle to help reduce the need for single-use plastic bottles during their travels.
- ✓ We predominantly use locally-owned hotels and guesthouses rather than multinational chains. In some of our destinations, such as Bhutan, we use homestays. Not only does this type of small-sized, locally-owned accommodation have a much-reduced carbon footprint, but it also helps support communities.
- ✓ We evaluate our flights to make sure we are using the most fuel-efficient airlines with the youngest fleets and, where possible, choose direct flights for each trip.
- ✓ We have stopped offering unnecessary optional flights, such as Everest sightseeing. We try to minimise internal flights where possible.
- ✓ We recycle as much of our office waste as possible and have introduced a client portal to reduce paperwork and to make it easier for clients to manage their trips online.

Wider commitment to responsible and sustainable tourism

- ✓ We are signatories to the Tourism Declares a Climate Emergency initiative to stand alongside other like-minded travel companies to initiate best practices to make tourism as sustainable as possible.
- ✓ We will continue to support several charities with whom we have a long-standing relationship, such as Shiva Charity in Nepal.

Over the years, we have given sizeable payments to emergency relief when a disaster has occurred in the countries we operate in. We always try to ensure that these funds go directly to those who need them most to help rebuild their lives.
