

Everest Flight 2019

Nepal - Extension Options

While in Kathmandu, why not experience the spectacular sight of Mount Everest. Instead of trekking into the region you can gain a stunning aerial view of Nepal's most iconic landmark in just under an hour. We fly either with Yeti Air, who operate a modern Jet Stream 41 British Made aircraft taking 19 passengers, or Buddha Air, who operate modern Beech Craft 1900D aircraft taking 18 passengers. As the seating is only two abreast everyone is guaranteed a window seat.

Itinerary and Prices

- Everest flights operate in the early morning when weather conditions are at their best.
- You will be transferred from your hotel in Kathmandu to the domestic airport by private vehicle.
- The flight takes you out of the Kathmandu valley. As you ascend you can see the sights of Swayambhunath, the Monkey Temple, and Boudhanath Stupa. You soon gain height and begin to see views of 8,000m giants; Makalu, Kangchenjunga, Cho Oyu and Lhotse as well as literally numerous other peaks. You will be given a pictorial guide to help identify the mountains.
- After 20 minutes in the air, Everest comes into view and you will all be invited up to the cockpit in turn to talk to the captain, who will point out some of the famous peaks.
- The aircraft cruises at a height of 7,600m/25,000ft (below the peak of Everest which stands at 8,848m/29,028ft). You come within around 5 miles of the giant peak.
- At the end of your flight you will receive a certificate, signed by the captain, and a glass of bubbly. You will then be transferred back to your hotel.

Price: £250 per person*

Flight time: 1 hour

Please note:

- If the weather is not good, Everest flights may be cancelled. In this event our agents in Kathmandu will, if practical, reschedule your flight to another day. If it is impossible to reschedule a cancelled flight you will be given a refund, less £20 to cover transfers and administration costs.
- The airlines are experienced enough to know when it is possible to see Everest. The mountain is so high that even if it is cloudy in Kathmandu, it can still often be seen on the flight.
